

BUGS!

Jackson
Gillman
Stand-up
CHAMELEON

What do doodlebugs, spiders, ants and skeeters have in common?

Laugh and learn in the Stand-up Chameleon's lowlife revue.

P.O. BOX 41
ONSET, MA 02558

508-295-0886
jxsong@comcast.net

www.jacksongillman.com

BUGS! – doodlebugs, spiders, ants and other crawlies are featured in this low-life revue

“Jackson’s skills as a musician and teacher highlight the program from beginning to end! His mixture of humor, sensitivity, and educational content made him a perfect addition here at the Children’s Museum.”

– Marilyn Solvay, Director of Education and Public Programs, Children’s Museum of Maine

“You did a great job of reaching all the children—some were too young to even be in school and others were middle-school age. The mix of music and storytelling, as well as your call for audience participation, kept everyone on their toes. You are a natural teacher.”

– Kimmerle Balentine, Head of Youth Services, New London, CT Public Library

“People of all ages were totally mesmerized and entertained by your show. You provided a perfect blend of education, ecological sensitivity, and humor on the topic of bugs, not an easy feat!”

– Bonnie Drexler, Education Program Manager, New England Wildflower Society